GAME PREVIEW

BROWNS VS. RAVENS

WEEK 2 | SUNDAY, SEPT. 14, 2025

QB Lamar Jackson

QUOTH THE RAVEN

"It's a blessing, and I'm excited to help my family [and] help others with it as well. But I don't think it really changes my outlook or my perception of who I am as a person. I pride myself on that. No matter what you're talking about, whether it's money or experiences or accolades, I try to just stay the same Kyle."

— S Kyle Hamilton on signing his contract extension with the Ravens

Baltimore (0-1) hosts Cleveland (0-1) in a contest that marks the Ravens' 2025 home opener at M&T Bank Stadium and the official celebration of the team's 30th season in Charm City. The Ravens are 20-9 all-time in home openers, sporting a 13-3 mark with head coach John Harbaugh at the helm.

Baltimore is 37-15 all time against the Browns, including a 26-8 mark under Coach Harbaugh. Baltimore is 14-3 in home games vs. the Browns during the Harbaugh Era.

Under Harbaugh (18th season), who is the NFL's second-longest-tenured head coach (Mike Tomlin - 19), the Ravens are one of four teams with at least 12 playoff berths in the past 17 seasons, joining Green Bay (13), Kansas City (12) and New England (12). Since Harbaugh's 2008 Baltimore arrival, his Ravens have produced the NFL's fourth-most total victories (185).

Dating back to 2018, when two-time NFL MVP QB Lamar Jackson became its starter, Baltimore has earned six playoff berths and produced a 70-25 regular season record.

In last week's season opener at Buffalo, the Ravens dropped a heartbreaking thriller, 41-40, on Sunday Night Football. Despite 169 rushing yards and 2 TDs from RB Derrick Henry and a 14-of-19 performance for 210 passing yards and 2 TDs (144.6 rating from Jackson,

NUMBERS TO NOTE

185 Total victories for the Ravens since 2008, when John Harbaugh was named head coach. The 185 victories are fourth most in the NFL.

108 RB Derrick Henry needs 2 rushing TDs to tie Walter Payton (110) for fifth on the NFL's all-time rushing TDs list.

47 WR DeAndre Hopkins (13,000) needs 47 receiving yards to pass TE Jason Witten for the 20th-most receiving yards in NFL history.

19 CB Marlon Humphrey needs 1 INT to reach 20 in his career and tie DBs Duane Starks and Rod Woodson for the fourth-most picks in a Ravens career, behind only S Ed Reed (61), LB Ray Lewis (31) and CB Chris McAlister (26).

424.9 Total yards per game the No. 1-ranked Ravens offense averaged in 2024. Last week at Buffalo, Baltimore racked up 432 yards of offense.

Buffalo overcame a 15-point, fourth-quarter deficit, ultimately kicking a game-winning FG as time expired. The Ravens gained 433 yards overall (238 rushing), but yielded 497 to Buffalo, including 281 passing in the second half.

LEARNING FROM MISTAKES & CHASING IMPROVEMENT EACH WEEK:

“As a coach, you look at all those little aspects of [what created issues] to try to get to the point where there’s a shared understanding, and the guys have a really good vision of what you’re doing – and we have that. We have a lot of really good things going. It’s just the start of the season, so we’ll keep chasing that. Like I said [last Sunday] night, that’s how you become the team that you’re going to be over the course of the season.”

DERRICK HENRY: MAN ON A MISSION

By Spencer Krock

With Derrick Henry's 10th-career season underway, it's reasonable to presume that the former Offensive Player of the Year and NFL's active leader in rushing yards and rushing touchdowns will one day be immortalized in bronze and see his massive frame draped in a gold jacket. Henry's Hall of Fame destiny is already chiseled into NFL lore, but don't mention Canton to him right now. He's not interested in legacy tours or farewell tributes. Right now, the league's most feared freight train is laser-focused on getting fitted for a different accessory: a Super Bowl ring.

After his first season in Baltimore in 2024, which culminated in 1,921 rushing yards, a franchise-record 18 total touchdowns and a career- and league-high 5.9 yards-per-carry average, Henry signed a two-year contract extension in May with intentions of helping the Ravens to their third Super Bowl championship in club history.

Now with a full year of offensive coordinator Todd Monken's scheme under his belt, Henry is hitting the ground running—literally—with tenacious intent, stronger chemistry with his teammates, his famously relentless training routine and a clearer understanding of his role in Baltimore's dynamic offense. That offense, which features 11 of 12 returning starters this season, shattered records in 2024 en route to producing 7,224 total yards, the most in Ravens history and the third most in NFL history.

"I think Derrick got comfortable with our offense and understanding the things that we wanted him to do, so going into Year Two, I think that everything we asked him to do, I think you'll see it on a higher level than what it was before because he's more comfortable with what we're asking him to do now," assistant head coach/running backs Willie Taggart explained. "Derrick practices like a pro. He practices like he's a rookie, and he wants to be better. He doesn't want to be the same, so we expect him to be a lot better. I expect for him to be a lot better, because he knows the offense so much better."

There is no exaggeration in Taggart's praise of his regimen. Every offseason, while most players take some well-earned downtime, Henry transforms into a one-man highlight reel of grit and grind. His legendary training sessions have become annual viral sensations, particularly the videos of him sprinting up steep Texas hills that look more suited for mountain goats than NFL running backs.

Weighted sleds, resistance bands and uphill sprints in sweltering heat—it's all part of a brutal regimen designed to keep the 6-foot-3, 252-pound back in peak form. That relentless work ethic is a big reason why, even in Year 10, defenders still bounce off him like he's in midseason form and why his approach to coming to work every day inspires and motivates his teammates and coaches alike.

"The way Derrick prepares for practice, the way he prepares for games, the way his mentality is when he is actually in a game, it's actually cool to observe, because you kind of see the difference between a normal person, a normal guy in the league and somebody that's going to be a Hall of Famer one day," running back Justice Hill described. "The way he approaches the game is the way it should be approached, and he's definitely gotten rewarded for it, and he will get rewarded for it in the future with more accolades."

Accolades, however, are merely a consolation at this stage in Henry's career. His purpose is straightforward: work hard, lead by example and hoist a Vince Lombardi Trophy.

"I want to be great, so no matter how good it is or no matter how bad it is, I'm always focused on trying to get better each and every day in each and every way I can," Henry remarked. "For you to be great, you've got to focus on being consistent. You've got to outwork everybody, and that's the approach I try to take every single day I wake up. Even the days you don't want to, you've got to find a way."

S MALAKI STARKS

EVERMORE

Rookie S Malaki Starks, the Ravens' first-round pick out of Georgia in the 2025 NFL Draft, worked hard during the offseason, earning a starting spot alongside All-Pro S Kyle Hamilton in Baltimore's defensive backfield. His teammates and coaches have praised him for not playing like a rookie, and No. 24 is poised to continue to improve each week. Get to know more about him below:

What are your favorite sports teams to follow?

My favorite sports are football, basketball, and track. I don't have a favorite team, but I am a good fan of good sports in general. My two favorite athletes are Michael Jordan and Kobe Bryant.

What superpower would you like to have?

I'd say mind reading. I feel like you could do a lot with it, and it's more beneficial. I also feel like flying, or if you choose something else, it won't help you as much.

Do you have any superstitions/pre- or post-game rituals?

I wouldn't call it superstitious, but I talk to my fiancée and parents before going out on the field.

If you didn't play football, what do you think you would be doing?

Realistically I have no idea, but if I wasn't playing football, I would probably be playing basketball.

Who is your role model? What motivates you?

My role models are my family: my mom, dad and sister. Their presence and what we went through every day motivates me. Also, my fiancée, she motivates me by wanting to be a better person and reaching my goals in life.

What is your favorite movie and who are some of your favorite musical artists?

My favorite movie is "Call it Race," and my favorite musical artist is Rod Wave.

What are some of your hobbies/something you like to do in your free time?

I don't do too much, but I really enjoy spending time with my fiancée, facetimeing our dog and looking at stuff together.

Do you collect anything?

I used to collect watches, like my dad's old watches. I don't do it anymore. I actually don't know when it stopped or started.

What is a fact about you that you think I would find difficult to believe?

My favorite color is pink.

If you were stuck on a deserted island with one teammate, who would it be and why?

I would choose Teddye Buchanan. Teddye is really big, so he can do all the fighting. I think I can be knowledgeable about starting fires and building etc., and Teddye can do all the heavy lifting.

COMMUNITY SHOWCASE ON RAVENSWALK

Today's Community Showcase featured the United Way of Central MD. For more information on the organization, please visit: <https://uwcm.org/>

At the conclusion of a training camp practice, Ravens players, including WR Zay Flowers, spent time with guests from the Ronald McDonald House of Baltimore.

2025 TRAINING CAMP

The Ravens again opened up their practice facility gates to kick off the start of the 2025 season for training camp at the Under Armour Performance Center. The 2025 training camp featured 17 free/open practices at the team's Owings Mills facility and M&T Bank Stadium. In addition to the general public, the team hosted 93 youth and community groups from across Maryland, as well as honorary special guests.

Alvin Ailey Summer Camp, Athletes Serving Athletes, Horizon Day Camp, MedStar Georgetown Children's Hospital, Gold Star Families, Mt. Washington Pediatric Hospital, Ronald McDonald House Charities of Baltimore and Special Olympics Maryland were several of the 16 community groups who had access to a private section to enjoy practice and cheer on the Ravens. Throughout the course of training camp, the team also hosted Boys & Girls Clubs across Maryland and 80 different area youth and high school football teams.

Ravens players WR Rashod Bateman, RB Derrick Henry, ILB Trenton Simpson, ILB Roquan Smith, T Ronnie Stanley and head coach John Harbaugh all invited nonprofit groups they've connected with to practice.

There were also designated days for military appreciation, first responder recognition and youth football teams. Ravens RISE/Girls Flag teams had the opportunity to form a gauntlet to welcome players to practice each day.

IN OUR COMMUNITY

8/7 The Ravens highlighted the 2025 class of the Ravens Scholars (above) and Ozzie Newsome Scholars. The scholarships are funded by the Stephen and Renee Bisciotti Foundation and the Ravens Foundation.

8/18 RB Derrick Henry hosted a back-to-school event for 200 students from Curtis Bay Elementary/Middle School. He also supported the Boys & Girls Club of Middle Tennessee with a back-to-school shopping spree.

8/25 ILB Roquan Smith hosted his annual back-to-school celebration, this year at Forest Park High School. Smith provided school supplies and haircuts for students, as well as treating them to the food trucks in attendance.
